

Writer receives award

The MidAtlantic Antiques Magazine is pleased to announce that Virginia correspondent Ginger Levit has received an award in the Virginia Press Women 2001 Communication Contest. Two of Ms. Levit's stories were entered in the category Special Articles/Arts, Entertainment and Fashions. She was awarded a second place certificate for her submission Mainly Monet (at the Virginia Museum,) November 2000 issue and Van Gogh's Face to Face (at the Philadelphia Museum of Art,) December 2000 issue.

Ginger Levit is a regular contributor to The MidAtlantic Antiques Magazine, writing mostly about the fine arts and European travel. She is a private art dealer, specializing in French paintings of the past 150 years. She holds Masters degrees in both French and Art History and travels often to France to research and buy fine paintings at auction. Her e-mail address is ginger@vcu.org.